FRIDAY, April 26, 1745.

VIENNA, October 21.

THE Deſertion from the Pruſſians is incredible: An independent Company conſiſting of 300 Men has been form'd out of thoſe who have voluntarily inliſted themſelves in the Queen's Service, and they, together with two Regiments of Horſe, and all the Militia of Bohemia, will be ſent into ...ia to reinforce General Bathiani. There are alſo 1000 ...dins marching for the ſame Purpoſe. The Queen has pre... a Gold Chain to Capt. Bordonovitz, who when he retir'd ... Donawert, with 300 Croats only, made a brave Stand a... 4000 Men of the Army under Count Seckendorff.

...n, October 31. According to the lateſt Accounts from ...rg, of the 25th Inſtant, the Beſiegers had not compaſſed ...raining of the River before that Town, the Trenches were ... Water, and the Governor made ſuch frequent Sallies, ...Marſhal Coigni being quite out of Patience, had threatned ... red-hot Bullets: The Burghers had attempted to engage ...Damitz to capitulate, and ſave their Houſes; but he erect... Gibbet upon an Eminence in the Town, aſſuring the Bur..., that he would hang up the firſt Man who ſhould return ſuch Propoſals.

...ſtrian Camp at Temitz, Nov. 9, O. S. Yeſterday Morn... the combined Army forced it's Paſſage over the Elbe, near ...chitz, in full Day light. Lieutenant-General Count Schu...burg was the firſt in croſſing that River, at the Head of the ...rian Grenadiers: The Courage and Spirit of our Troops this Occaſion cannot be exceeded, and with regard to the ...nt himſelf it may be truly ſaid, that he led on his Men like ...eneral, and fought himſelf like a Grenadier. The Saxons ...'d ſome hundred Paces higher, and rather later than we did. ...' they met with no conſiderable Reſiſtance, they were pre... to oppoſe any that might have been made. We had 150 ...nadiers kill'd or wounded, and ſome Officers among them: ...e Saxons loſt about 26 Men. At firſt the Enemy's Fire was ...reme y hot, and laſted for an Hour; but as ſoon as our Gre...iers had reach'd the other Side of the River, the Pruſſians ...t off in the greateſt Confuſion, tho' they might have diſpu... the Ground longer, by means of ſome Battalions, which ... had at Temitz and the neighbouring Parts. We are to ...ch To-morrow, in order to make all poſſible Advantage of Event, which will in all Probability be followed by others ...reat Conſequence.

...enna, Nov. 14. We hear that General Nadaſti has taken ... brought to the Camp a Pruſſian Canon, with the Contri... of all the neighbouring Country.

Hamburgh, Nov. 16. O. S. Letters from Dreſden adviſe, that in the firſt Attack the King of Pruſſia made againſt the Saxons, upwards of 700 Pruſſians came over to them at once, and that the Duke of Weiſſenfels, ſince his Arrival in Bohemia, had ſigned upwards of 2000 Paſſports for Pruſſian Deſerters. The Number of thoſe come into the Auſtrian Camp is yet more conſiderable: And according to the Liſt publiſhed at Vienna, it appears that 2706 Pruſſian Deſerters, including 28 Officers, have come over to Prince Charles's Army in ſeven Weeks.

Prague, Nov. 17. O. S. On the 15th, when the Pruſſians were preparing to evacuate the Town, a Body of 2500 Auſtrians entered by another Way into it, attacked the Pruſſians near the Bridge, and purſued them with a briſk Fire (of which 4 or 500 Pruſſians took the Advantage, and deſerted) ... the ... Gate they were to go out at. Col. Cogniazo havi... ... Enemy with 100 great Eagerneſs, got into the ... with a few Men, and was kill'd. They have left ... of great Artillery, and 18 Mortars; having neither ... Time to carry them off. Yeſterday and this Day above 10... Deſerters have returned to the Town. For 3 Days before th... marched out, the Enemy were employed in throwing 50... Quintals of Powder, ſeveral Thouſands of Bombs, Grenade... and Cartridges, into the River; and broke 12000 of ... kets. They had dug Mines in many Places, intending to ... up the Works of the Town; but only one took Effect, and th... with very little Damage. Amongſt the Auſtrians were abo... 120 Pruſſian Deſerters, who fell upon their old Comrades wi... the utmoſt Fury. The Populace alſo having drawn upon t... Ramparts ſome great Cannon which the Enemy had left, loa... ed them with two or three Balls at once, and fired upon ... Pruſſians till they were out of Sight.

Combined Army in Bohemia, Nov. 17. The Pruſſians ſtill continue to retreat in the greateſt Hurry and Diſorder, leaving ... very Thing which cannot eaſily follow, to the Mercy of the Light Troops, which under the Command of Lieutenant Gen. Schwahen, have paſſed the Elbe to harraſs them, and which are continually fatiguing them by Skirmiſhes, carrying off many Men, and facilitating the Deſertion, which daily increaſes.

This Day we had Advice, that 40 Carriages full of Baggage, and ſeveral cover'd Waggons laden with Bombs and Warlike Stores, had been taken from the Pruſſians.

Hague, Nov. 29, O. S. The following is the ... the Anſwer which the States General ... Trevor, in Conſequence of the Declaration ... made to their High Mightineſſes on the Part of ... Majeſty, in the Night between the 9th and ...

"Their High Mightineſſes perceive with ...

that his Britannic Majesty approves of the Conduct which they at present pursue, and the Designs which they have in View to accomplish hereafter: Their High Mightinesses were always thoroughly persuaded, that the deep Penetration and just Discernment of his Britannic Majesty, would not permit him to put an evil Sense upon the pacific Conduct which the Republic has hitherto observed, nor to disapprove that which it thought indispensibly obliged to pursue before declaring itself: That there never was any Thing their High Mightinesses more earnestly, and with greater Good-will, entered into, than to employ themselves in forming a powerful Party in the Empire, and in the North, in Favour of her Majesty of Hungary: Their High Mightinesses still thought it their Duty as well as Interest to proceed in the pacific Method, and yet for a while to temporize, in order to put themselves with more Facility into a Condition of making a respectable Figure both by Sea and Land; but as soon as Things should arrive at the Point which their High Mightinesses proposed, and which they had all the Reason in the World to hope would come to pass, the Republic would then be in a Condition of openly declaring itself, and of more effectually convincing his Britannic Majesty, that their High Mightinesses never intended to elude for a single Moment the fulfilling of the Treaty of 1678." This Answer was afterwards delivered in Writing to the British Minister, who immediately dispatched a Courier with it to London.

Hague, Nov. 29, O. S. We have Advices which mention, that before General Bathiani fell ill, he had dislodged the Imperialists from Berghausen, and thereby broken their Chain of Posts which runs along the River Inn.

Nov. 30, O. S. They write from Paris, that a Squadron of 6 Men of War, having 25 Companies of Land-Forces on board, has sailed from Brest for the Coast of Africa, to attack the English Forts and Settlements there; and that another Squadron of the same Force, double manned, is to sail for Sweden, to bring to France the Men of War built there, for his most Christian Majesty.

LONDON, November 2.

It is evident that France, notwithstanding all her Power, is far from being able to enslave Europe, unless the major Part of the Princes and States of Christendom wilfully conspire to give themselves a Master; which is never likely to happen. There is nothing to be feared from France: Her Coffers are empty, the Credit of the Court declines, and the People are become sick of Tontines, Lotteries, Annuities, and such like Expedients for raising of Money.

By a Letter from the Hague we learn, that they have frequent Skirmishes in the Coffee-Houses there, between the Second-Rate Austrians and the French Partizans; They come often to Blows; and the taking of Prague, with the Wagers laid on that Occasion, have revived these petty Wars. A few Days ago happened a very sharp Rencounter, between an Italian Tradesman, who has been a long Time in the Austrian Service, and a Disciple of Æsculapius, born a Subject of the Queen of Hungary, but a declared Partizan of France: The former corrected the indiscreet Zeal of the other with a few Cuffs, and some Blows with his Cane; which the Monsieur of the Faculty received with his Sword by his Side. Very ill Consequences were apprehended from this sudden Commencement of Hostilities; but by the Mediation of a friendly Society, to which they both belonged, a Treaty was set on Foot, and a Peace shortly after concluded between the contending Parties.

January 5. We hear that two large Fleets will speedily be fitted out; one of which is continually to cruize, and the other to guard the Coast, and relieve each other occasionally.

The Lords of the Admiralty have ordered two 60 Gun Ships to be fitted out with all Expedition, which are to be stationed at Carolina, and to be under the Direction of the Governor of that Province.

Jan. 15. His Grace the Duke of Bridgewater was taken ill on Friday last, and died about 8 o'Clock the same Evening at his House in Cleveland Row, St. James's.

'Tis said there will be a new Commission of the Peace for the whole Kingdom.

Jan. 17. His Portugueze Majesty is relapsed, and is likewise thought to be in so great Danger, that public Prayers have been made for 2 Days at Lisbon for his Recovery.

We are informed, that the Mercury Fire-ship was lately lost in a Storm in the Downs, and but 4 of the Crew saw'd.

Jan 27. Last Night three several Messengers arrived at the Earl of Harrington's Office, from Germany, with Dispatches advising, that on the 9th of this Instant Charles Albert, Elector of Bavaria, and Emperor of Germany, died of the Gout in his Stomach, in the 48th Year of his Age; whereupon his Son Maximilian Joseph, about 19 Years old, will endeavour to succeed him in the Imperial Dignity. This Prince has signified to the Queen of Hungary, that he takes no Part in his late Father's Quarrel, and therefore desires that all Hostilities may cease on both Sides. This is confirmed in the London Gazette, and will give a surprizing Turn to the Affairs of Europe.

Jan. 28. Tuesday last two Engineers were appointed to go to the Caskets, to examine whether it be practicable to weigh up the Victory Man of War, lately lost there; and which, at a very low Tide about a Fortnight ago, was discovered, sunk in 14 Fathom Water.

Another remarkable Piece of News in this Day's Gazette is, that a Treaty is just upon the Point of being concluded between the Czarina and the King of Prussia; upon the Arrival whereof at Berlin, his Prussian Majesty will re-invade Bohemia.

The late Change in the Administration is so disagreeable at C——t, that 'tis said his M—— has not seen the Lord C——r these ten Days.

Newcastle, Nov. 14. We are advised from Leith, that Capt. Lake, Commander of his Majesty's Ship the Hector, being informed that a French Privateer of great Force was cruizing in those Seas, to intercept the West-India and Virginia Ships, which were expected North about, went in Pursuit of the said Privateer, and fell in with her off Arbroath; and after an Hour's Engagement, the Privateer struck. She had a great many Men kill'd, and 140 are sent Prisoners to Edinburgh. This is the same Privateer which sent her Boat and Crew into Montrose Harbour, and cut out the Concord of Frazerburgh, Alexander Gill, Master, in the Presence of about 3000 Spectators.

Bristol, Nov. 24. The Tryal Privateer, Capt. Wood, of this Port, has taken 3 French Ships, bound from Bourdeaux to St. Domingo; one of 18 Guns and 90 Men; one of 12 Guns, and the other of 10, with 40 Men each. One of them he sent into Aberdovey in Wales, and carried the other two into Kingsale in Ireland.

Dec. 15. Yesterday we received Advice from Kingsale, that the Old Noll Privateer of Liverpool, on her second Cruize, met with the French Privateer who took her the last Cruize; and after a bloody Engagement of some Hours, sunk her, and taking up 40 of the French Sailors, carried them into Kingsale.

Portsmouth, Jan. 14. Yesterday was brought in here the Privateer Ship Mars, of Dartmouth, mounting 26 Carriage Guns; who was taken the 4th Instant, and retaken by the Captain Man of War, Capt. Griffin, on the 6th. the said Privateer brings Advice, that they saw two French Men of War, one of 70, the other of 60 Guns, with 20 Sail of Merchantmen under their Convoy from the West Indies. The Captain, Sunderland, Hampton-Court, and Dreadnought Men of War were in Chase of the French, on the 9th Instant, in Lat. 48. The Hamptoth

Hampton-Court gained greatly on them, being ſuppoſed to be within 3 Miles of them; and the Sunderland had loſt her Main Top-maſt in the Chaſe. The reſt of Admiral Medley's Squadron had been ſeparated ſome Days.

From the BARBADOES Gazette, Dec. 8, 1744.

The following is an Account of the late diſagreeable Behaviour of Capt. John Prentice, who was Commander of that well fitted Bilander Privateer named the Greyhound, which mounted 12 Carriage, and 24 Swivel Guns, with above 90 ſtout Men; which had every Thing elſe neceſſary, and which, to his eternal Diſhonour be it ſpoken, he did ſurrender, give, and deliver up to our ſworn Enemies the French, in the following Manner; viz. Ten Leagues off St. Vincent, Prentice could but juſt perceive a Sail; upon which he called out to his Gunner, to know if every Thing was ready for a Defence? who told him, that he had but 6 Guns loaded, and thoſe never having been diſcharged or unloaded (either through Ignorance or bad Principle), were ſo foul, that after ſeveral Attempts to fire them, only 3 would go off: And when Prentice found ſome would fire, he immediately demanded and took the Match out of the Gunner's Hand, and with his Foot ſtamp'd the Fire from it; then turning about to his Men, aſked them one and all whether they were willing to fight, or not? upon which, one Pilgrim, ſecond Lieutenant, all trembling and fearful, ſaid, God bleſs you, dear Captain, we had better give up, we ſhall be more civilly treated for it! and ſeeing a Man going to give Fire to a Gun, he ſnatch'd the Match unawares from him, and threw it overboard. By this Time the French Sloop had got under her Lee-Bow, and was ready to diſcharge a Broad-ſide, when they perceived another French Sloop bearing directly down upon them, upon whoſe firing one Shot, the unfortunate Bilander ſtruck. But Behold! when the French Officers came on board, and found what Metal ſhe had, and how well ſhe was mann'd and fitted, they cried out, Shame, Shame to the Engliſh! had it been a Captain of ours who had behaved ſo meanly, he would have been hang'd or burnt; and they freely own'd, that if he had made the leaſt Reſiſtance, they muſt have ſurrendered or got clear, being in a very mean Condition for want of Ammunition. After this, he and all his Men were carried to Martinico, where his Image was form'd, hang'd up, fired at, and burnt in his Preſence, to let him ſee in what Deriſion they had him (whoſe proper Coat of Arms ought to be, A Lion Coward, that is, A Lion with his Tail turn'd in between his Legs); and from thence by a Flag of Truce, he and all his Men were brought back to us here, where he muſt not ſhew his Poſteriors, much leſs his Face; for which Reaſon he cunningly and imperceptibly got home, where he has hid himſelf, to lament for his cowardly Behaviour: But however, the next Day after his Arrival, his and his ſecond Lieutenant's Images were made, and publicly hang'd in the Horſe-meat Market.

Where they were mock'd and ſham'd by the Common,
——— And had in Deriſion by every Woman.

And it is really hoped that they will not go unpuniſhed ſome Way or other, for ſuch cowardly, unmanly, and treacherous Actions; that others, for the future, may be deterred from taking upon them ſuch Truſts and Employments as they are no Way qualified for.
